Randy/Frank,

I want to thank you for the terrific job that Mid-Continental did at the Hotel Icon in Houston, Texas. At every level of your organization, your team did truly exemplary work. Obviously, a heap of credit is due to Randy, Dean Bax, and Shawn Hereford (as well as all of the other folks on-site that worked through the Houston summer heat). I can tell you that both hotel staff and Mike Stadler at CDC paid high praise to their organization, professionalism and craftsmanship, and I personally found it a pleasure to work with them.

The efforts of a number of those not in the field did not go unnoticed, either particularly Lucy Gladbach, Candy Stockton and Patty Musch, who were a pleasure to work with and always on the ball. Lien releases, pay applications, daily reports, warranties, etc. were always delivered on schedule without my having to ask, and when I frequently requested changes and nit-picky corrections, they were always made quickly and without hesitation. I also appreciate the time that JR Lattimer spent with us at the beginning of the project to explain all of the safety procedures that would be utilized on a historic building with no permanent roof rigging.

Thanks again for the excellent work.

Sincerely,

Andrew Gerber, AIA
